

Protecting Sacred Voices

Dear Native American Children's Alliance Friends,

We are very pleased to announce that the Protecting Sacred Voices public awareness campaign kit is now available. We are excited to make these customizable materials available to support your work in Native/Alaska Native communities. The kit is designed to help adults learn about the signs of child abuse and to be courageous in reporting suspicion.

This campaign kit contains 3 separate materials that can be customized for your community:

- 11x17 poster - The large poster features a unique photo mosaic technique in which the image of a young girl is illustrated using dozens of drum images. This creates a dramatic, eye-catching image that immediately draws the viewer's attention.

The templates are designed for organizations and tribes to insert their own logo and telephone numbers. Once you purchase this template simply bring the CD to your printer and use all the materials, or select whatever materials will be most useful for your tribe or organization.

- attention.
- Brochure - This pamphlet highlights basic information on types of child abuse, steps to take if you suspect child abuse, and a local number to call for assistance.
  - Display easel with tear-pad - This easel can be easily displayed in any office. It includes brief descriptions of child abuse and the tear-pad lists local phone numbers that individuals can keep for future reference.

Make a difference in a child's life by stepping forward. Help keep children safe and families strong by encouraging your community to learn how to prevent abuse and protect a child.
